Joomla have released J! 1.5.5 which for once includes some very useful fixes (mainly making the SEF URL implementation work better) - when will JACL Plus be available for this release?

I realise that Joomla's much-increased release schedule for the 1.5.x branch makes life much harder for those developing components which require core file hacks, but presumably the likes of ByosTech have a code diff. engine in place which makes it fairly quick and easy to implement the majority of their code changes in each .x release.
